A member of the public spoke regarding the A27 consultation process, highlighting that one of the biggest problems was noise, which they advised could be addressed by way of special road surfaces that also reduce vehicle/lorry spray. It was felt that extra measures needed to be adopted by Highways England to manage the noise created particularly by motorbikes, noise from Goodwood and the volume of traffic in general. Concerns were also expressed regarding air pollution. It was felt there was generally an element of 'nimbyism' in people's route preference.

Councillor Adamson explained that the council had reached a decision regarding the consultation process at its meeting on Monday 14th October and the purpose of the extraordinary meeting was to complete the consultation response form to reflect its decision.
